About the Practice

Sydney Triumph Lawyers Pty Limited is a Sydney-based legal practice acting for businesses, franchise networks, institutional clients and private individuals across New South Wales.

The practice runs criminal, family, commercial, property and civil litigation matters, and appears in every level of court from the Local Court to the Federal Court.

The practice is led by principal solicitor Mohammed Algalele, admitted in New South Wales in 2015 and holding a principal practising certificate. He is supported by a senior practitioner, an admitted solicitor and a paralegal.

Clients deal directly with the principal. The solicitor who takes instructions is the one who runs the file, briefs counsel and appears.

How We Work

- Direct instructions — the principal takes the first conference personally, not an intake officer.
- Fixed scope in writing — costs disclosure and a written scope before work begins on every matter.
- Counsel where it counts — senior barristers briefed when the matter warrants it, not by default.
- One point of contact — the solicitor who takes your instructions runs the file through to resolution.

Compliance

Sydney Triumph Lawyers operates under the Legal Profession Uniform Law (NSW) and the Legal Profession Uniform General Rules 2015, regulated by the Law Society of New South Wales and the Office of the NSW Legal Services Commissioner.

The principal holds a current practising certificate as principal of a law practice and has met all continuing professional development requirements.

The practice maintains professional indemnity insurance through Lawcover, the insurer for New South Wales law practices, with an indemnity limit of $2 million for each claim.

Trust monies are held and reconciled in accordance with the trust account provisions of the Uniform Law. Conflict checking is carried out on every new matter before instructions are accepted.

“People come to us at the worst point of something – a charge, a separation, a business going wrong. What they want to know first is whether the person they are speaking to is the person who will actually turn up for them in court.

Here, that answer is yes. I have appeared more than a thousand times, from the Local Court through to the Federal Court, and every matter this firm takes on is one I run or supervise personally.”

A criminal, family and commercial practice built on courtroom experience

Who we are

Our capability spans advice, negotiation and advocacy across four practice groups.

Advice & Advisory

- Institutional advisory — standing advice to consular, corporate and franchise clients.
- Commercial & property — contracts, leasing, conveyancing and business disputes.
- Risk & compliance — trust account, governance and regulatory matters.

Advocacy & Litigation

- Criminal defence — indictable and summary matters, bail applications and sentence.
- Family law — property settlement, parenting and complex asset pools.
- Senior counsel — King's Counsel and senior barristers briefed where a matter warrants it.

Practice Areas

Capability

The practice is deliberately cross-disciplinary. A criminal charge often arrives alongside a family law dispute or a commercial problem, and clients are better served by one firm that can see the whole picture than by three that each see a part of it.

Detailed matter references are available on request.

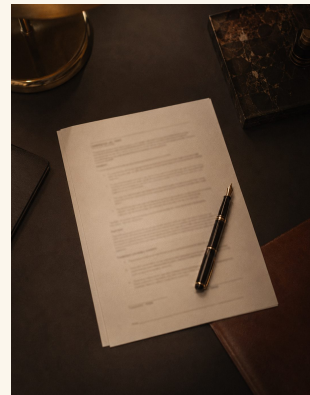

Criminal Law

Indictable and summary defence, bail applications, sentence and appeals across all NSW courts.

Family Law

Property settlement, parenting arrangements, and complex multi-million dollar asset pools.

Commercial & Property

Contracts, corporate advisory, franchise disputes, conveyancing, leasing and title matters.

Civil & Administrative

Commercial disputes, recovery, trust and account claims, and institutional advisory work.

New South Wales & Newcastle

Sydney Triumph Lawyers has held Legal Aid New South Wales panel appointments for more than five years, accepting grants of aid across New South Wales and the Newcastle region.

Panel membership spans crime, family and civil streams. That breadth lets the practice accept aid across the full range of Legal Aid matter types rather than a single stream, and to carry a matter through where it crosses between them.

Legal Aid work has included appeals, mediations, family law property and asset division matters, applications under section 102NA of the Family Law Act, and contested trials.

Our principal has also served as duty solicitor at Mount Druitt Local Court, attending weekly to assist the court and unrepresented parties.

ENGAGEMENT

International consulate,
Sydney

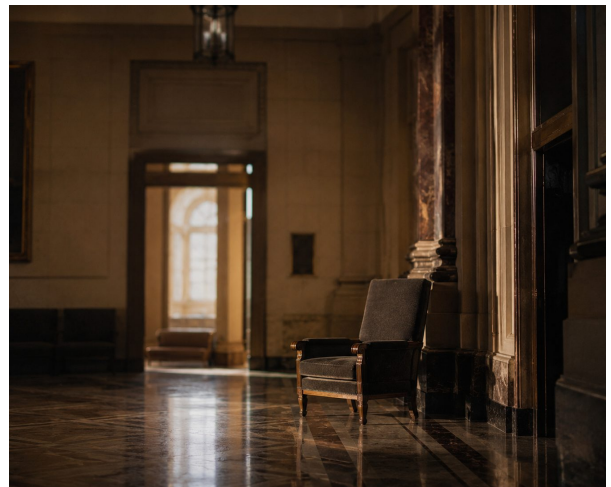

2018 – 2022

Standing in-house retainer

Our principal was engaged as in-house solicitor to an international consulate in Sydney, holding the position for four consecutive years.

The role carried the consulate's full legal workload rather than a discrete brief: administrative and consular matters, commercial contracting and procurement, property and leasing arrangements, employment questions, and liaison with external counsel where specialist advice was required.

Work of this kind demands discretion, availability and an understanding of institutional decision-making. Instructions came from officers operating under diplomatic protocol and reporting lines, and advice had to be practical, prompt and defensible.

Institutional and government advisory work

OUTCOME

Four years of continuous engagement without interruption, covering the entirety of the consulate's legal requirements in New South Wales.

Raine & Horne Fairfield and regional network

CLIENT	SECTOR	SCOPE
Raine & Horne Fairfield	Real estate franchise	Network and regional offices

Sydney Triumph Lawyers was contracted by Raine & Horne Fairfield and subsequently retained across regional Raine & Horne offices, acting for the network and its regional managers.

The engagement covered commercial and property work: agency agreements and contractual arrangements, property and leasing matters, and disputes arising within the franchise structure between the network, its offices and third parties.

Acting for a franchise network requires an understanding of where the franchisor's interests end and an individual office's begin, and the discipline to manage conflicts across multiple related clients within the one brand.

Franchise network advisory, NSW

OUTCOME

An engagement that expanded from a single Fairfield office to regional offices across the network, including work for regional managers.

R v Yin — $1.2m trust account prosecution

CHARGE

Alan Yin

Serious dishonesty offences

$1.2 million

Our principal acted for Alan Yin, a former Raine & Horne franchisee, on charges arising from the siphoning of $1.2 million from company trust accounts.

The prosecution case involved a substantial documentary brief and a quantum that ordinarily attracts a custodial sentence. The defence was built on the subjective case — the client's circumstances, background and prospects — and presented in detail on sentence.

The matter was reported in the Daily Telegraph.

Criminal defence, NSW

OUTCOME

Our client did not serve a day in custody.

Multi-million dollar asset division and contested parenting

PRACTICE AREA

QUANTUM

SCOPE

Family Law

Multi-million dollar pool

Property and parenting

The practice has acted in multi-million dollar asset division proceedings involving complex property structures, including matters where assets sat across companies, trusts and self-managed superannuation.

Alongside property, the practice runs contested parenting matters, including relocation, supervised time and matters where allegations require careful and sensitive handling.

Family law work is run with the same courtroom preparation as the firm's criminal practice, and settled where settlement genuinely serves the client rather than the file.

Family law practice, Sydney and Newcastle

OUTCOME

Resolution of complex property pools and parenting arrangements, with matters run to hearing where negotiation did not serve the client.

Our Team

Who you deal with

Four people, one file. Every matter is run or supervised by the principal, and clients are told at the outset who is doing what.

Mohammed Algalele

PRINCIPAL SOLICITOR

Admitted in New South Wales in 2015 and holding a principal practising certificate. Practises across criminal, family, commercial and property law, with more than 1,000 court appearances from the Local Court to the Federal Court. Served four years as in-house solicitor to an international consulate in Sydney. Australian Army Reserve — infantry soldier, enlisted 2021.

Hasan Algalele

SENIOR PARTNER

Former barrister at Trust Chambers with experience across criminal, family and commercial law. Having appeared in all levels of the New South Wales courts, Hasan now practises primarily in criminal and family law. He is known for an empathetic, client-focused approach and for acting in his clients' best interests.

Asadullah Ali

SOLICITOR

A solicitor practising in family and criminal law. Asadullah regularly appears on behalf of clients in Sydney and Newcastle, and is known for his personable attitude and the rapport he builds with clients.

Ahmad Yousef

PARALEGAL

Currently studying law and working as a paralegal at the firm, supporting solicitors across family and criminal law matters with document preparation, client communication and general case management.

Barristers We Brief

Counsel

Where a matter warrants senior advocacy, the practice briefs counsel rather than running it alone. We hold standing relationships with the chambers below across the New South Wales and Queensland Bars, and brief counsel appropriate to the matter and the forum – not by default. The principal remains on the file, attends conferences with counsel, and appears as instructing solicitor.

Extra Curricular

Australian Army Reserve

Our principal enlisted in the Australian Army Reserve as an infantry soldier in March 2021 and continues to serve.

Reserve service sits alongside the practice rather than apart from it. The discipline, planning and chain-of-command experience it demands carry directly into the way matters are prepared and run.
